

Jil Hötte

During the last years my wish to make a positive change in the world has been growing constantly. I want to protect nature. I want to protect people. As a designer I feel a big responsibility on that matter, because I think that it is possible to make a change with my products. I want to make products of good quality that try to make the world a little bit better.

I have always been interested in all kinds of design and art, especially in the design of furniture and interior.

I am always looking for new challenges. At the moment I am looking for an internship to finish my bachelor Industrial Design at the University of Twente.
